

Help the Hudson Area Library

Be part of the FOOD CHAIN!

Have some FUN!

- Get together with friends over this winter to chase away the winter blahs.
- Be a guest at follow-up parties ...have a great social season.
- Have a party while feeling good about giving.
- Get to know your neighbors (or have an excuse to check out your neighbors!)
- Try out all those recipes you've been clipping.

Here's how it works

- Invite friends to your house for a meal.
- Charge them a fee.
- Send that fee to the Library.
- Encourage each guest to repeat the process at their house.
- BINGO! A FOOD CHAIN!

Variables:

Invite 2 people, 6 people or 50 people. Whatever is comfortable for you – it's your party! Consider using this as an opportunity to meet your neighbors, help a newcomer in town to get settled, or renew old acquaintances. Use the library as an excuse to widen your circle!

Charge $20.00 or $100.00 per person – or anywhere in between. You decide. Use the complexity of the meal as your guide. How much would your guests spend on a restaurant entrée of cheeseburger and French fries? How much for rack of lamb or pasta? Do you love 5 course formal spreads? Or a quick casserole? Serve lobster and caviar or SPAM. (Well, maybe we should draw the line....) Your choice. And don't be limited by the time of day. A delicious lunch or pancake-filled morning works just as well.

Consider some library related entertainment. Know an author who'll contribute a reading? Have your guests dress as their favorite literary character. Maybe the kids want to "Show and Tell" a favorite book. Or choose a "food" book: Diane Mott Davidson's Dying for Chocolate (1993) is filled with mouth-watering recipes.

Make all checks payable to "Hudson Area Library". Put Food Chain on the memo line.

Copy this instruction page and give it to each guest. We want each of them to have a dinner party too. Same rules apply. And, hopefully, they'll pass on the FOOD CHAIN within 2 months (or sooner).

In the best possible way, this is a pyramid scheme made for our cause! So join in. Send out those invites and help the Hudson Area Library serve the community in its new digs. We'll put these instructions on line, too. www.HudsonAreaLibrary.org.
